CONMEN ARRESTED FROM DELHI HAVE DUPED AT LEAST 100

By Eshan Kalyanikar

The Matunga police arrested five people from Delhi last Wednesday, within a week of an online fraud case being filed against them. The complainant was a senior citizen who was tricked into transferring Rs 93,59,792 into 16 different fake bank accounts. The gang carried out all the operations from Delhi and have duped at least 100 people from Maharashtra. "The gang used a fake name 'Aman Mathur' and assured people that they will give them a loan from Reliance Capital," said D.C.P. N Ambika. According to her, the gang gained the confidence of people in need of financial assistance by constantly calling and emailing them. The gang extracted heavy amounts from people under various mutual fund schemes, fixed deposits and loans. The D.C.P. further stated, "Up till now, it seems that the mobile numbers were picked up randomly." The fact that fake bank accounts were used puts the credibility of banks in the country at risk. "There were 16 banks that were used to open fake accounts. Some of them are Axis Bank, HDFC and Bank of Baroda," said an official. When asked how it was possible to create a fake bank account, the D.C.P. said, "The investigation is on and we will find more facts concerning the matter." The five arrested have been identified as Rajendra Singh (34), Sschin Sirohi (28), Anupkumar Agrahari (25), Vikrant Singh (26) and Prashant Chaudhry (25). Rajendra Singh
